

NEO Personality Inventory-3 (NEO-PI-3)

The NEO-PI-3 (NEO Personality Inventory - 3) is a psychological test that measures the five major personality traits: Neuroticism, Extraversion, Openness to Experience, Agreeableness, and Conscientiousness. Used mainly in clinical psychology and research, it provides a detailed profile of an individual's personality based on 240 items. It is a revision of the NEO-PI-R that includes simplified items for better comprehension, particularly for adolescents.

Scoring & interpretation

Each answer is rated on a 5-point Likert scale. The raw score for each facet and each factor (the 5 dimensions) is calculated, then converted into standardized scores (T). The results make it possible to position the individual on each of the 5 major dimensions and their 6 associated facets, according to population norms.
